Executive Committee/Officers

Board Chair

Joe Brennan, Esq. (2026) – Partner, Ulmer & Berne

Joseph J. Brennan is a partner of Ulmer & Berne LLP and works out of its Cleveland, Ohio office. Joe's practice focuses on representing employers in a wide variety of labor and employment legal matters, including wage and hour, employment discrimination, occupational safety and health, traditional labor, and ERISA litigation matters. Joe has extensive experience defending and advocating for national, regional, and local employers in front of federal and state courts as well as administrative employment agencies such as the Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, various state civil rights commissions, the Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission, the Ohio State Employment Relations Board and the National Labor Relations Board. When not representing clients before the various labor and employment tribunals, Joe represents employers' interests in union contract negotiations, collective bargaining agreement administration, union grievances and labor arbitrations, and the ins and outs of the disposition or acquisition of a unionized business. Joe recognizes the importance of proactive human relations management and counsels employers on the various legal implications arising from workplace injuries, safety compliance, occupational safety and health hazard abatements, in addition to employee leaves, discipline, and termination to mitigate liability, financial exposure, and the potential for costly litigation.

First Vice Chair

Edie Sweeterman (2025) – Foundation Relations Officer, Kent State University in the Department of Philanthropy and Alumni Relations

Edie Sweeterman is an experienced business development professional who works as a Foundation Relations Officer at Kent State University in the Department of Philanthropy and Alumni Relations. In this role, she initiates, develops and coordinates fundraising approaches to secure grants from foundations to support university priorities. In addition, she maintains a pool of foundation prospects, both locally and nationally, generating support for faculty programs and research while meeting established fundraising goals and responsibilities. She holds a BA in Speech Communications from Wittenberg University – where she met and married her college sweetheart. Together they have shared parenting joys of raising two wonderful children. Edie was touched by adoption as a young girl when her sister gave up her own daughter for adoption at the tender age of 16. Happily reuniting with her when she was 20 and maintaining a close-knit relationship since, serves as some of the most meaningful moments in their family's lives. She is a long-time resident of Strongsville and enjoys the outdoors, hiking and exploring, cooking, and reading.

Christine Zanoni, M.Ed. (2026) – Principal, Insightful Minds Community of Learning

Christine Zanoni is the Principal of Insightful Minds Community of Learning, serving students on the autism spectrum through experiential engagement, mindfulness, and restorative practices. During her 32 years in education, she's focused on a strengths-based approach dedicated to helping young people challenged by complex developmental trauma, mental health issues, and autism. In 2023, the Cleveland Metropolitan Bar Association recognized Christine as the 3Rs Teacher of the Year for her work connecting PEP students with their program. Christine holds a bachelor's degree in education from Hiram College, a master's degree in special education from Kent State University, and leadership credentials from Baldwin Wallace University. Christine is an adoptee who was reunited with her birth family in 1996 and lives in Cleveland, Ohio, with her husband and furry companions. When she's not reading up on ways to help students and staff know some joy in each day, she can be found watching her actor-husband in plays, enjoying puns, and binging The West Wing on television.

Amy B. Zlotnik, M.A. (2025) – Vice-President and Co-Owner, Audimute Soundproofing and Medic Batteries

Amy Zlotnik has been running two successful businesses alongside her husband for 17 years, where she oversees the finance and personnel departments. Prior to this, she was a pediatric occupational therapist for almost 20 years, primarily working in the schools with children of all ages. She graduated from the University of Michigan with dual Bachelor's degrees in Education and Psychology and then received a Master of Occupational Therapy degree from the Medical College of Ohio (now University of Toledo Medical School). Amy was active in the National Council of Jewish women for several years, including serving on their executive board as Membership Director. Personally, Amy is an adoptee who was reunited with her birth parents in 2015 when the Ohio Birth Certificate records were opened. Since they ended up getting married a few years after her adoption, she has also been fortunate enough to establish a relationship with her two full sisters, who both live in the Cleveland area. Amy is a lifelong Clevelander who currently lives in Solon with her husband, Mitchell. They have two grown children who reside in Cleveland and Columbus.
